Message from the President

An outbreak of viral pneumonia happened at the end of 2019 in the central city of Wuhan of Hubei Province in Mainland China. The pneumonia is described as "Severe Respiratory Disease associated with a Novel Infectious Agent". A novel coronavirus, a new strain of coronavirus that has not been previously identified in humans, was found to be the causative agent. World Health Organisation (WHO) recommended the interim name of the disease to be "2019-nCoV acute respiratory disease" where 'n' is for novel and 'CoV' is for coronavirus. The new coronavirus has recent been named COVID-19, with the 'CO' for corona, the 'VI' for virus and the 'D' for disease. The outbreak of the disease constitutes a public health emergency of international concern. The Government has decided to raise the response level of the "Preparedness and Response Plan for Novel Infectious Disease of Public Health Significance" to the Emergency Level on 25 January 2020. Globally, the number of confirmed cases is on a rapidly rising trend at the time of writing.

The outbreak of COVID-19 inevitably reminded us of the previous Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome (SARS) outbreak in 2003. In order to reduce the general risk of transmission, it is very important to remind everyone to maintain good personal and environmental hygiene.

As in every major outbreak of novel disease, the initial information about the disease could be very limited. Quite often, the news related to the novel disease could be quite conflicting and may not be easy to follow. With the team efforts of our College's Executives and Council members, with effect from 29 January 2020, we have introduced in our own College website the links to local and international websites providing regular update on COVID-19 for ease of reference, special thanks to the coordination and efficient work of Dr. Lau Ho Lim and Ms. Erica So. Several of our Council members also appeared in various media to share about the combat against COVID-19 infection and related issues, including Dr. Billy Chiu, Dr. Allan Ngan, Dr. Ken Ho, Dr. Lau Ho Lim, Dr. Angus Chan and myself, just to name a few. We have also been actively exploring the alternative means of conducting our CME/CPD activities during the outbreak by using various videoconferencing modalities, thanks to our Web Committee lead by Dr. Matthew Luk. With the concerted effort by Dr. Alvin Chan and the Board of Education, we would be ready to try it out in the coming couple of weeks. Professor Samuel Wong and the Research Committee launched an online survey on the doctors' response to the COVID-19 outbreak in Hong Kong. Thank you all for helping to respond to the survey.

Dr. Donald Li, our WONCA President, has also reiterated the important role of family doctors and primary healthcare in Disaster / Emergency preparedness and response in relation to the novel coronavirus outbreak. (<https://www.globalfamilydoctor.com/News/DonaldLiontheCoronavirus.aspx>) In his message, Dr. Li said, "Family doctors have the "first in, last out" role. They always stand in the forefront, as well they are also the ones who manage the aftermath of contingencies. Outbreaks would bring long-lasting consequences to the both physical and psychological health of a community, from one generation to another. Successive generations of family doctors continue to provide care and treatment.” And I agree with Dr. Li entirely. Let us unite together in the fight against the current COVID-19 outbreak!

We also received many thoughtful correspondences from Dr. Harry Nespolon, President of RACGP and his teammates Dr. Mark Miller, Mr. Nick Williamson, and Dr. Chris Hughes, as well as from Prof. Zhu Shanzhu, Chair of The Cross-Straits Medicine Exchange Association, expressing their support and solidarity with our colleagues and friends in Hong Kong in the combat against the COVID-19 outbreak. We are most thankful for the mutual support from our sister organisations, international colleagues and friends in dealing with this public health emergency. Together we can overcome!

Earlier in the year, I paid a brief visit to Singapore and met up with Dr. Tan Tsz Lee, President of the College of Family Physicians of Singapore. He was very kind to show me his clinic, The Edinburgh Clinic, where he is the Principal Partner since the 1990's. It was great to learn from Dr. Tan who is a family doctor through and through, and his clinic is thoroughly “embedded in the community” as Dr. Tan proudly describes it.

Coronavirus

Coronaviruses (CoV) are named for the crown-like spikes on their surface. There are four main sub-groupings of coronaviruses, known as alpha, beta, gamma, and delta. They are a large family of viruses that cause illness ranging from common cold to more severe diseases such as Middle East Respiratory Syndrome (MERS-CoV) and Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome (SARS-CoV). A novel coronavirus (COVID-19) is a new strain that has not been previously identified in humans.

Coronaviruses are zoonotic, meaning they are transmitted between animals and humans. Detailed investigations found that SARS-CoV was transmitted from civet cats to humans and MERS-CoV from dromedary camels to humans. Several known coronaviruses are circulating in animals that have not yet infected humans.

Human coronaviruses were first identified in the mid-1960s. The seven coronaviruses that can infect people are:

- Common human coronaviruses
 - 229E (alpha coronavirus)
 - NL63 (alpha coronavirus)
 - OC43 (beta coronavirus)
 - HKU1 (beta coronavirus)
- Other human coronaviruses
 - MERS-CoV (the beta coronavirus that causes Middle East Respiratory Syndrome, or MERS)
 - SARS-CoV (the beta coronavirus that causes severe acute respiratory syndrome, or SARS)
 - 2019 Novel Coronavirus COVID-19

People around the world commonly get infected with human coronaviruses 229E, NL63, OC43, and HKU1.

Sometimes coronaviruses that infect animals can evolve and make people sick and become a new human coronavirus. Three recent examples of this are COVID-19, SARS-CoV, and MERS-CoV.

“Severe Respiratory Disease associated with a Novel Infectious Agent” refers to the cluster of viral pneumonia cases occurring in Wuhan, Hubei Province, since December 2019. According to investigation by the Mainland health authorities, a novel coronavirus (COVID-19) is found to be the causative agent.

Common signs of infection include respiratory symptoms, fever, cough, shortness of breath and breathing difficulties. In more severe cases, infection can cause pneumonia, severe acute respiratory syndrome, kidney failure and even death.

The main mode of transmission of novel coronavirus is through respiratory droplets, the virus can also be transmitted through contact. Current information suggests that the incubation period ranges from 1 to 12.5 days (with median estimates of 5 to 6 days), but can be as long as 14 days.

Health advice

Members of the public should always maintain good personal and environmental hygiene. They are advised to:

- Perform hand hygiene before touching the mouth, nose or eyes; after touching public installations such as handrails or door knobs; or when hands are contaminated by respiratory secretions after coughing or sneezing;
- Cover your mouth and nose with tissue paper when sneezing or coughing. Dispose of soiled tissues into a lidded rubbish bin, then wash hands thoroughly; and
- When having respiratory symptoms, wear a surgical mask, refrain from work or attending class at school, avoid going to crowded places and seek medical advice promptly.

Travel advice

The public should take heed of the health advice below when travelling outside Hong Kong:

- Avoid close contact with persons with fever or respiratory symptoms in countries/areas with possible transmission of novel coronavirus infection. If it is unavoidable to come into contact with them, put on a surgical mask and continue to do so until 14 days after returning to Hong Kong;
- Avoid visiting wet markets, live poultry markets or farms;
- If feeling unwell when outside Hong Kong, especially if having a fever or cough, wear a surgical mask, inform the hotel staff or tour escort and seek medical advice at once; and
- After returning to Hong Kong, consult a doctor promptly if having a fever or other symptoms, take the initiative to inform the doctor of any recent travel history and any exposure to animals, and wear a surgical mask to help prevent spread of the disease.
